Mrs. Effie Manley

Dear Mrs. Manley:

I am sure that you had some players trying for your team that did not prove to be good enough. I would like to have the best of those players to form a good semi-pro team.

I offer them a good easy job at the Phillips Packing Co. where they can make at least $40 a week with extra pay for playing base ball.

How is Robert Harvey making out? As you know he played with my team.

If Negro base ball is to survive we must train our player with a contract on them from the early years. What I am saying we must have a farm system. The Phillips Delicious team would gladly serve as a farm team. The strength of the team would depend on what type of players you send.

Each player could make more than $50 a week.

Please let me hear from you.

yours in sport,

George F. Cornish
